

I. W. W. MIXING IN STRIKE AT BAYONNE WITH USUAL RESULT

Employees Openly Threaten Violence In Case Of Police Interference

"MOTHER" JONES IS COMING

Attempt Made To Set Fire To Tidewater Plant Early In The Morning

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 17.—A flat turnout of the strikers' demands and subsequent threats of violence of the employees in case of "undue" police interference were the net results of the conference today between a committee of strikers and George B. Hennessy, superintendent of the Standard Oil plant here.

Hennessy told the employees that the company refuses to raise wages and to reinstate strikers convicted of violence.

William Melcher, head of the strikers' committee, was ejected from the conference by Hennessy's order. He promptly called a mass meeting of strikers for this afternoon. He said he would counsel moderation on the part of the strikers, but added that "if strikebreakers are brought here to take the bread out of the workers' mouths, I cannot control the situation; the men will fight back."

The conference in Hennessy's office ended with Hennessy's announcement that the company "was not going to let any bunch of men run its plant."

Then the committee was shown out of the building.

Participation by the I. W. W. in the strike agitation loomed up this afternoon when the police learned a number of leading members of the organization are headed for Bayonne.

"Mother" Jones also is said to be on the way here. Policemen were stationed at the terminals of all trolley lines and railroad stations with orders to arrest Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, who is expected, and any I. W. W. workers arriving here.

Two strike sympathizers were wounded, one probably mortally, in an encounter between police and strikers as a result of sniping. The most seriously hurt refuses to give his name. He has a bullet in his thigh and the physicians believe he will die. The other man is Alexander Karecki. He was shot in the hip.

PITCHED BATTLES RESUMED

Attempt Made to Set Fire to Tidewater Plant.

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 17.—After a night of unrest and firing by snipers, rioting growing out of the Standard Oil strike was renewed early today. Two pitched battles were fought between strikers and policemen and another attempt was made to set fire to the Tidewater plant.

A crisis in the strike is looked for today when representatives of the idle employees are to call upon Standard Oil officials at the company's New York offices. The committee has no authority to call off the strike but will report back to the strikers for ratification of any agreements.

The strikers have split into two factions—those who are willing to aid in bringing about a peaceful settlement and those who are resolved to force the companies to meet with their terms.

The first battle today occurred when more than 100 strikers made a drive for the New Jersey Central via. duce. Upon gaining the top they let loose a fusillade of revolver shots against half a dozen special policemen on guard. One bullet went through Special Policeman Lynch's hat. The officer returned the fire but no one was hit. Three arrests were made.

A little later more than a score of strikers made an attack on Special Policemen Brown and Traites near the Twenty-sixth street railroad tracks. They escaped injury. This was the second attack upon them within 12 hours. The two officers are credited with 14 arrests.

Bayonne officials today took a pessimistic view regarding the possibility for an early resumption of order.

Conferees looking toward a settlement of the strike began at 8 o'clock this morning when the special committee of strikers met George B. Hennessy, general superintendent of the Standard Oil company plant here. Statements given out by both sides just before the conference began were pessimistic. Mr. Hennessy said it would be impossible for the company to grant the wage scale demanded by the strikers, nor could the demand for the reinstatement of convicted rioters be met. William Melcher, chairman of the strikers' committee, stated the employees would not "recede an inch."

Berlin Reports Repulse Of Tremendous Pressure Of Allies On The Somme Line

Germany is engaged in the gigantic task of attempting two counter offensives simultaneously in separate theatres of war.

In France the Teutons are struggling desperately to check the encircling movement of the allies at Bapaume. The French war office today made particular mention of the violence of the counter assault launched by the Germans south of Bapaume where fighting was in progress all night. Despite the German attack the French gained more ground.

At the southern end of the east front the Austro-German armies have begun a drive against the Russo-Rumanian forces. Its purpose evidently is to get between the Russian and Rumanian armies. The German allies have lost ground in Rumania. It is reported from Petrograd that Von Mackensen's army has been rolled back 40 miles, but the report lacks official confirmation.

There is no let-up in the struggle on the Macedonian front. The Bulgarians have delivered powerful assaults against the Servians in the past 24 hours. The attackers lost heavily and gained nothing.

By David W. Bowman.

The long expected straw vote of Lima, taken by The Cincinnati Enquirer and anticipated with some eagerness in the political circles of both parties, appeared this morning.

As anticipated, Wilson is away ahead of his fellow members of the democratic ticket, defeating Hughes nearly two to one. The gubernatorial and senatorial fights, however, are close.

The totals are as follows.

Wilson, 465; Hughes, 245;

Wilson's majority, 220.

Willis, 363; Cox, 825; Willis' majority, 36.

Herrick, 299; Pomerene, 291; Herrick's majority, 8.

This is not far from the proportionate result which the wisacres throughout the state expect and anticipate. Wilson is far stronger than his ticket, but the state fights are close. The only surprise is that Willis proved stronger in Lima than did Herrick, for Pomerene is 30 votes ahead of Cox. If the poll had been taken after the visit of Senator Gore it would be easier to understand. The blind orator was outspoken in his ringing endorsement of Atlee Pomerene, whom he characterized as a staunch Wilson supporter on every bill favored by the president. Another possible explanation of Pomerene's recent gains—and it is climbing rapidly all over the state—is the unsolicited endorsement of the labor leaders in Ohio Cox, however, is gaining as well as Pomerene, the Willis tour being his best asset.

There were only seven votes in Lima for Benson, the socialist candidate for the presidency, all cast at the Gramm-Bernstein. On the switching record, 36 voters who supported Wilson in 1912 went to the Willis column. Cox gained 16 in the change of votes.

The Lima straw vote runs as follows:

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Following the formal recognition of the revolutionary government in Greece by the allies, the Daily Mail suggested today that the Greek kingdom be transformed into a republic. This paper says that General Sarrajl, commander-in-chief of the allies in Macedonia, favors the idea as also do many European statesmen.

It is intimated that, if King Constantine is deposed, the presidency would be offered to Eleutherios Venizelos, head of the revolutionary movement.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Beating off violent German counter attacks the French have made fresh progress on the Somme front.

The war office communique today stated that the French troops that penetrated Sully-Sailles, northeast of Comblis, advanced along the Bapaume road during the night. However, the French met with desperate resistance. Counter attacks were made by the Germans in an attempt to drive the French from Sully-Sailles but all failed.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Bulgarian troops holding the road to the Macedonian city of Monastir have been making strong attacks against the Servian positions in the past 24 hours. It is reported in an official statement on Balkan operations issued by the war office today.

In spite of the vigor of the assault all were repulsed. The fighting was very severe along the Tcherina river.

Artillery duels were reported from that section of the Balkan front held by the French.

BERLIN REPORTS LINE HELD.

Tremendous Attacks of Allies on West Front Fail.

BERLIN, via Sayville, Oct. 17.—The most terrific drum fire of the whole war was directed by the Anglo-French artillery against the German positions on the Somme October 11 and 12, according to the military critic of the Overseas News Agency. In a review today he states that the German troops defending the Somme front had thought it impossible to exceed the violence of the artillery fire as used by the allies' great attack in the first days of October. This was done, he adds, on the two days mentioned.

"Nevertheless," continues the writer, "and in spite of terrific hail of iron, the English and French did not succeed in rendering the German position ripe for storming."

"The engagements on October 11 and 12 were a new heavy failure of the French and British on the Somme. It becomes more and more probable that they will bleed to death on the unshakable German

Body Refuses to Direct an Investigation, Though It's Invited.

SWAT DEMPSTER IDEA

Hospital Authorities and Physicians Defend Institution.

Vindication for the hospital and repudiation for the expected "investigation" were the results of the regular council meeting last night. Prominent physicians, hospital authorities and trustees, public-spirited citizens and others in a position to speak authoritatively defended the institution against Councilman Dempster's assault, and the rest of the body, led by Carl K. Rowlands, refuses to support his motion to investigate. On the final roll call Dempster stood alone, the probe going down by a vote of eight to one.

This conclusion was reached in spite of the fact that representatives of the hospital trustees and the medical profession invited and welcomed a complete investigation. "If there is anything wrong at the city hospital it is the fault of the city, not of the hospital," was the prevailing sentiment.

Routine matters held up the discussion until late in the evening, but when the table was cleared Dempster took the floor and announced that conditions at the hospital were in such shape as to merit investigation. The points which he entered in support of his contention were as follows:

The state of affairs is just as much the city's fault as the hospital authorities', as there should have been a better contract. The present contract makes no provisions for fixed rules regarding who shall be admitted as charity patients and who shall be rejected. The police rush patients to the hospital who are refused. Most of them are "drunks", and no contagious cases or delirium tremens cases should be received. The city has no provision for contagious cases other than smallpox.

The hospital board should have an attending physician. The hospital is in charge of a woman. The contract is silent on this point.

Patients are credited to the charity ward who can pay. The Andrews Asphalt Paving company entered several sick negroes who should have been paid for by the company employing them.

Patients are admitted as "pay" cases but do not pay all of their bills. Some are later made charity cases. The contract does not establish any authority to pass on which

SEARCH MADE FOR LIMA AUTO THAT SMASHED PIQUA CAR

Authorities of Lima are desirous of learning the owner of the Lima automobile which collided with a machine belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sheaf, of Piqua, Sunday night. Although none of the occupants of the Piqua car were injured in the accident the machine was so badly damaged that they were forced to abandon it and return to Sidney on a traction car.

The accident occurred about six miles from Sidney. According to the occupants of the damaged machine the other car did not stop following the collision. Instead they speeded up their machine and made their get-away. However, a good description of the occupants of the car was obtained and furnished Sidney authorities.

RIOTING CONTINUES AT BAYONNE.

POLICE RUNNING DOWN BAYONNE STRIKER.

With a death toll of at least three, and the list of wounded close to 100, the town of Bayonne, New Jersey, continues to be the scene of rioting and pitched battles between the police and the striking oil workers. The police have been ordered to "shoot to kill" and shots are constantly exchanged.

The picture shows the police running down a striker who had just done some shooting. Note that one of the policemen in the foreground is reaching for his revolver, while at the right is an officer, who evidently has already drawn his, judging from the position of his arm.

Describing the battle, he says: "French and English formations front just as the Russians already did in Galicia." Columns started in compact, crowded waves, but right after their beginning came to a standstill in the well aimed German curtain of fire. "In spite of heavy losses they attempted advance after another against the German positions."

"Near fifty six storming attacks were launched. All thrusts failed completely under the heaviest and most sanguinary losses to the attackers."

"The German infantry left the ground that had been battered into hollows, and standing upright they shot down the hostile storming columns with rifles and machine guns."

PARIS, Oct. 17.—"France's prestige has become extraordinary in fact. It was never greater."

This declaration was made by Premier Briand in a remarkable conversation with Alfred Capus, famous French publicist. The premier was asked when the war would end and the conversation that followed was made public today.

"I cannot say when this conflict will end," replied the premier, "but I will point out that we have already regained the prestige we lost in 1870. On the day that we won the Marne victory all peoples recognized that they had been misjudging our character."

"France's prestige has become extraordinary. In fact, it was never greater. We have regained our national personality—reconquered all of our old influences. The consequences of this will be incalculable from the viewpoint of trade and the arts. While victory will demand a hard price it is worth patiently waiting for. In fact our freedom—the very life of the republic—depend upon it."

SUES RAILWAY FOR $10,000 FOR THE DEATH OF STEP-SON

Damages for $10,000 are asked in a petition filed in court today, when Mrs. Emma J. Rinebolt, administratrix of the estate of her step-son, Charles Crawford, seeks to secure this amount from the New York Central Railroad company. Crawford was killed on August 29, 1915, while driving a carriage and crossing the tracks of the Lake Shore railroad at Main street in Bryan, Ohio.

Negligence upon the part of the railroad company and its employees is charged in the petition. Mrs. Rinebolt says no whistle was blown to tell of the approach of the train. Employees were not looking for whom might be near the tracks, the train was running at a dangerous speed, and no gates were used to protect pedestrians.

She says without warning, her son drove upon the street crossing from a southerly direction north of Bryan. She avers, too, the view of the tracks was obstructed by cars standing on the siding. Crawford was the son of George Crawford and Arlene B. Crawford, brother, and Sarah S. Betts, sister, with Pearl Golden, Dora M. Thompson and Virginia M. Dittenger, half sisters, are interested parties in the suit. Mrs. Rinebolt said as her son, she contributed to her support. She resided at 1120 East Wayne street.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the son's home, conducted by the Rev. C. S. Lehmann, pastor of the Church of the Brethren in East Elm street. Interment will be at Woodlawn. A daughter, Mrs. William Rush, also lives in Lima.

LIMA WOMEN ARE PROMINENT AT OHIO FEDERATION MEET

Redistricting of the state from four to eight districts will be one of the important subjects discussed at the sessions of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs, which opened in Dayton this afternoon with an address of welcome by Mayor George Shroyer, following a meeting of the executive board and club presidents.

Mrs. Charles M. Kumbler of Dayton, is general chairman of the convention, which opened with more than 2,000 club women present at Memorial hall. The greater part of today's session was consumed with committee reports. There will be no election this year, as officers serve two-year terms. Election was held at the meeting in Toledo last fall.

Mrs. Kent W. Hughes of Lima, as chairman of the program committee, gave her report at the session this afternoon. At the hour of 4 o'clock, reports of district vice presidents were heard. Mrs. John W. Roby of Lima, vice president of the northwest district, spoke at this time.

There will be no business Tuesday evening, but instead Perry McKay's "Sanctuary" will be presented. Mrs. Robert S. Seybold of the University of Wisconsin, will appear as the principal dancer in the performance. The Dayton Drama league will assist.

This presentation will follow the assembling at 7:45 o'clock, at Memorial hall, when the Dayton Federation will welcome its guests. From 9:30 until 11 o'clock, a reception will be held at the beautiful Miami hotel, which is headquarters for the Federation meeting.

No event of the Ohio Federated clubs convention is more eagerly anticipated than the big banquet, to be given at the N. C. R. dining hall, on Thursday evening, when more than a thousand club women will be served simultaneously, with the hall handsomely decorated, an orchestra rendering an attractive program, and a spirit of informal sociability pervading the whole.

There will be a special table for the ex-presidents of the Ohio Federation. At another table, of which Mrs. Charles H. Kumbler and Mrs. F. G. Kumbler will be the hostesses, will be seated the state chairmen of the various committees, and others who have had a prominent part in the arrangements for the convention.

Much anticipation is felt in connection with the art exhibits which have been planned for the enjoyment of the public as well as the visiting delegates, and which will be conducted at Memorial hall, as well as the Y. W. C. A., under the direction of Mrs. George Stevens, state chairman of the art committee.

An enjoyable feature which has been planned for Wednesday evening at Memorial hall, just preceding the lecture to be delivered on the O. W. F. C. program by Dean Shaler Mathews of the University of Chicago, will be the musical program to be rendered by Dayton musicians, for the pleasure of local and visiting club women, and their friends.

After summing up these points in detail, Dempster moved to refer the matter to the judiciary and health committees, with instructions to write to other cities for information as to treatment of charity cases. The motion was seconded by Foster.

Councilman Rowlands immediately rose to reply to Dempster. First he submitted section 1, article 1, of the rules and regulations of the hospital, which sets forth explicitly the means of determining between charity and "pay" patients.

"It costs $1.65 a day to maintain a bed for charity," he declared, "and that makes nine a day on the $6,000 we appropriate annually. In 1908, there were 18 paid and 9 charity beds, so you can see that the charity accommodations were all filled eight years ago. The hospital gives more charity service every year than we pay for."

"There is a visiting staff, composed of an oculist and aurist, a physician and a surgeon. The family doctor cannot attend charity patients, so there is no reason to believe that physicians enter their patients as charity cases in order to have a better chance to collect their fees."

In the Emich case, distorted in the popular reports, it was said that he was refused an operation because he didn't have the money with which to pay. That is not the truth."

Rowlands read a signed statement of Dr. W. H. Beery, setting forth that Emich selected a pay room, and postponed the operation twice, although urged to go under the knife. His father refused to pay for the room, and Emich had no funds of his own. Nevertheless he flatly refused to be classed as a charity patient. Finally his friends collected a fund to meet his expenses.

Dr. F. G. Steuber declared that he knew of no cases where physicians took advantage of the hospital, adding that if there were any they were very few. Emmett R. Curtin, chairman of the executive committee of the board of trustees, declared emphatically that the authorities courted an investigation.

"It costs $5,000 more every year to run the charity ward than comes in for that purpose from the city," he stated. "No one is turned down because of poverty."

Curtin added that the institution is handicapped by lack of funds, but compares with the best in the country except the great metropolitan hospitals which are erected by philanthropists and heavily endowed. "The mayor of Lima, Ballis H. Simpson, is the secretary and treasurer of the hospital," he explained, "and he signs the bills. If anything were wrong he'd know it."

Again he requested that the hospital board invited an investigation and was ready to be held.

"There is about $8,000 on the books," he concluded, "so it seems that there are a great many 'charity' patients from the other ward."

Again he requested that the hospital board invited an investigation and was ready to be held.

"There is about $8,000 on the books," he concluded, "so it seems that there are a great many 'charity' patients from the other ward."

Mayor Simpson verified Curtin's assertions, and explained that he was misquoted in the report of a controversy regarding the condition of the hospital. He said that he was reported as saying physicians entered patients as charity cases in order to stand a better chance of collecting, but that he had merely declared the matter hearsay and that he did not believe it. The Andrews Asphalt Paving company, he added, would pay for their sick employees, and the manager had promised to do so and would on his return to Lima at an early date.

Safety Director Earl Rohn stated that the hospital had occasionally refused to accept the "drunks" from the police officials and that he endorsed the institution's refusal. Rowlands again took the floor and stated that lack of funds was at the base of any flaws which might be picked. "Instead of investigating, vote more funds," he urged. Citing the Bell case, he read the statement of Dr. J. M. Paterson to the effect that the pneumonia victim was not admitted because the institution was overcrowded.

"Someone always has to be the goat," declared Dempster, "and I'm willing to take the blame. There have, however, been patients in the charity wards who could pay, and there should be some authority to decide on them." He declared that the townships in Allen county and the other counties should pay share for patients residing outside of Lima, adding that reporters had been refused information as to the residence of various patients. Curtin replied that such a judge would have to be on the job all the time, and would in reality have to live at the hospital, and decisions would be required at all hours and without delay.

Dr. Fred L. Bates stated that the family physician is the only one who can judge definitely regarding the financial status of a patient, and that there is no sense whatever to the plan of having an outsider decide. There are physicians on that staff who get no pay, he added, in defense of the medical fraternity. An interne or a resident physician was his suggestion. Charity patients, according to Dr. Bates, often got better treatment and medical service than the paid ones. "We must rely on the honor of the family physician," Dr. T. M. Johnson echoed the same idea.

Health Officer Arthur L. Jones was emphatic in his defense of the hospital management. Contagion is a great problem, even in the big city institutions, he stated. Lima has little trouble with it, only one or two cases coming up in several years. Lima should have its own contagious ward.

"The worst thing is the D. T.," he declared. "There are only young girls at the hospital to take care of such cases. We have to put a baby in jail here or the children's home if we want to hold a parent, as there is no detention house. $3,000 a year is a mere bagatelle. Lima hasn't anything worthy of the name of a jail, and it has no strong ward for the raving delirium tremens case."

Drs. W. H. Beery, W. E. Hoyer, Albert S. Rudy and William Roush defended the hospital management and offered statistical data in support of their contentions. "One hundred free operations were performed in the charity ward last year," said Roush, "and more than 250 already this year." All of the physicians protested against the custom of the Lima police in "dumping plain drunks" into the hospital for the nurses to handle. Curtin came forward again to insist on an investigation.

Dempster still clung to one of his original points, stating that the committee should investigate the cases of charity patients from outside of Lima, finding out whence they came. Curtin replied emphatically that such cases are paid for by their own townships or counties. "Outsiders pay," he concluded.

On call for the question, President Price asked Clerk Hefner to read the original motion, which was "that the question of investigating the number of charity patients at the city hospital be referred to the judiciary and safety committees." Dempster voted "yea" and the other eight "nay."

M. E. WOMEN MEET IN MISSION CONCLAVE AT EPWORTH CHURCH

Foreign missionary workers from Methodist churches in Lima district, numbering 200, half of whom were from out of the city, attended the thirteenth annual convention, which opened this morning in Epworth Methodist church. Mrs. F. G. Clark, of Lima, president, was in the chair.

Both the Rev. Warren J. Dunham, of Grace church, and the Rev. J. W. Holland, new pastor at Epworth, were on the program at the morning session. Mrs. H. C. Taylor, of Epworth, church, recording secretary of the district, gave a report of the mid-year meeting and Mrs. F. G. Clarke, the president, told of aims and efforts the coming year.

The latter part of the forenoon session was devoted to reports of auxiliaries, those included being the bible box secretary, secretary of literature, extension work, tithe work, secretaries in charge of these various departments; Mrs. H. P. Kidney, of Delphos; Mrs. J. E. Hardin, Mrs. W. E. Kilborn, Mrs. Frances Shuldecker and Mrs. Willis Huffer, of Elida, respectively.

Mrs. E. E. Stephenson, of Celina, gave the report of the branch meeting and Mrs. W. F. Martin, wife of the Methodist pastor at Wapakoneta, told of the good done by the Lakeside school of methods, which was attended by many Lima women the last week in July. Mrs. R. V. Dickey, of Lima, was scheduled for a talk on the text-book, used by all missionary societies, for study.

An interesting feature of the convention was a workers' council, held this afternoon at 1 o'clock, just before the beginning of the afternoon session. It lasted for half an hour, when various topics, of interest to missionary societies, were discussed.

Holy Communion Celebrated. Dr. David F. Helms, superintendent of Lima district churches, assisted by the Rev. J. W. Holland and visiting pastors, conducted the Holy Communion service, at the beginning of the afternoon session. The devotional service was in charge of Dr. M. B. Fuller.

Reports were scheduled from Mrs. C. V. Stephens, of Lima, on "How the District Stands Financially"; Mrs. O. I. Robbins, of Spencerville, as treasurer, an address by Mrs. A. E. Smith, of Ada, as conference secretary, the report of the jubilee secretary, Mrs. D. J. Cable, of Lima, closing with a children's hour, this afternoon.

Standard Bearers, auxiliary to the society, will hold a dinner this evening, when missionary members may also attend. The principal address at the evening session will be by Dr. Helms, district superintendent. The devotions will be by the Rev. J. W. Holland and the benediction by the Rev. J. A. Spyker, of Second Street Methodist church.

Officers will be elected at the close of the afternoon session. Mrs. H. C. Hubbell, conferences superintendent, is one of the notable visitors. She is interested in the work of the young people.

Pomerene is strongest at the C. H. & D. shops and round house, with a vote of 46 to 17. Herrick got his heaviest lead in the five banks, polled, as would naturally be expected—the banking interests are for the banker candidate. His vote there was 21 to 7.

Cox was strongest at the L. E. & W. 7 to 2, on Main street between Market and North, 73 to 57, and in the C. H. & D. shops, 51 to 28. Willis' stronghold is the Buckeye Machine plant, 8 to 1.

The real work of the campaign was started by the Young Men's Wilson-Cox club last evening, with the unregistered voters of the democratic faith distributed among the various ward captains for interviews. Friday and Saturday, October 20 and 21, are the last dates on which any voter can register for the November election, and heroic efforts are to be made to get out the full strength of the party so as to get the votes in the ballot box.

Each precinct captain was given the names of the unregistered Wilson voters in his precinct, with instructions as to how to get after them. A great number of those who have not yet registered, it is believed by the officers of the young men's organization, are men who do not realize that registration is essential to voting in Lima this year.

Plans have been completed for a string of automobiles to carry the club to Delphos tomorrow evening, when the first extension will be made from the local organization. A committee is now at work getting the machines, and the members who get to the party headquarters at 6:30 will be transported to the canal city to participate in the gathering. Spencerville, Bluffton and the rest of the communities in the country will follow, and eventually the townships will be taken care of. The aim of the leaders is to have an active branch club in every part of Allen county, so that on election day there will be plenty of aggressive workers to see to it that the full power of the party is recorded at the polls.

As a sample of the trend of thought among the law-abiding, but much-maligned German-American Alliance, the following statement, printed in the Cincinnati Enquirer this morning, will be received with interest in Lima and northwestern Ohio generally:

"As a member of the German-American Alliance, I demand to know by what authority John Schwaab or any other officer of the organization assumes to deliver the support of the alliance to Candidate Hughes in the forthcoming election," said former Vice Mayor Frank L. Pfaff, secretary and treasurer of the Cincinnati Wilson Business Men's league, yesterday. In this connection Mr. Pfaff said:

"The fundamental principle of the German-American Alliance is personal liberty in thought and action, and I emphatically challenge the right of a coterie of organization republicans who happen to occupy positions in the alliance to publicly announce that the individual members of our society are hostile to President Wilson."

"I know hundreds of local members of the alliance, and some of them radical republicans, too, who are openly supporting President Wilson in this campaign."

"In my opinion the close proximity of Colonel Roosevelt to Candidate Hughes will have the effect of swinging to President Wilson thousands of German-American Alliance members who are not hooked up bodily and professionally with the republican organization."

There is nothing particularly new about the sentiment expressed, but it has never been so well expressed before. Republican efforts to line up the antagonism of the solid German-American vote have been persistent, but the members are beginning to realize that the program was one to make them the steed on which Hughes would ride to Paradise—then tie the steed outside.

Many of the most prominent leaders of the German element in Lima are outspoken in their support of President Wilson. They admit that he has given them as fair a deal as international law would permit, and that they are not sure of Hughes. And as one observing German-American puts it: "Teddy spilled the beans at Battle Creek."

F., which opened today in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium. The recording and financial secretaries of every lodge in Ohio are in attendance. There are 700 lodges with a membership of 93,000. The convention was formally opened last today by Grand Secretary C. H. Lyman, of Columbus. The sessions will be solely business to the exclusion of social features and will close Wednesday afternoon.

KILLED WHEN TWO FREIGHTS COLLIDE. ALTON, Ill., Oct. 17.—Fireman Harry Sommers, of Roodhouse, was killed and Engineer Laurence Hornbeck, also of Roodhouse, suffered a broken leg when two Chicago and Alton freight trains collided head-on here today. Several persons who rushed to the assistance of the trainmen were badly burned by walking through pools of sulphuric acid, the contents of a tank car which burst when the shock came.

"YOU, TOO, BRUTUS," HUGHES MAY SAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—"Mr. Hughes, if he shall be elected, will be in some measure an experiment," declares (General) J. Bonaparte, attorney general in the cabinet of President Roosevelt, and formerly one of the leaders of the progressives, in an article in the current issue of the Outlook. "Mr. Hughes is not the man I wish to see nominated for the Presidency," Mr. Bonaparte adds.

WILSON IS STRONG IN NORTH DAKOTA

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—James Holm, of Pierre, South Dakota, contributes to the cheering news which is reaching the democratic committee from all over the west. Mr. Holm writes that Pierre and vicinity will undoubtedly show a large plurality for Wilson on November 7. He says that a poll taken in a local grocery store of the casual customers one afternoon resulted, Wilson 19; Hughes 1. Two commercial travelers, arriving one from the east and one from the west, reported that polls taken on their trains resulted, Wilson 38; Hughes 9, and Wilson 27; Hughes 7.

FISHERMAN MAKES GRUESOME FIND

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 17.—As Edward Sater was trawling along the banks of Rocky river this morning, looking for a good place to cast a line, he stumbled over the body of a woman about 25. No marks on the body revealed identity or cause of death. After police examined the body, they discovered one arm was artificial, which they think will lead to identification.

NEW METHODS OF MAN KILLING ARE DEVELOPED BY WAR

Feature of Latest French
Tactics is Economy in Soldiers.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Every day sees new methods of warfare develop. The French are especially active in devising refinements in man-killing. Captain Philipps Miller today describes the latest tactics of the French army as follows: "I do not think that the most remarkable feature of the present advance on the Somme has been sufficiently noticed. I refer to the economy in men."

"All of us who spent the first 26 months at the front know that, even as late as in September, 1915, although we had more heavy guns and shells, the connection between infantry and artillery proved very imperfect and was responsible for many losses."

"Two things must be considered separately. First of all, the preparation; secondly, the attack itself."

"The objection of the preparation is to get rid of all the different obstacles which may delay the advance of the infantry. Now, these obstacles fall under three headings: There is first the barbed wire, then the defensive works (trenches and strongholds), finally the curtain fire of the enemy's artillery."

"The destruction of barbed wire is almost exclusively the task of the 25's; our gunners know exactly how many shells are required per yard of wire entanglement."

"The task is somewhat more complicated as regards the destruction of the defensive works. Experience has proved that the best way to deal with the front-line trenches, especially when they are not easy to observe, is to use exclusively against them an enormous number of trench mortars of all sizes."

"Howitzers are only used at present against the second and third lines and all the works behind the first-line trenches."

"As for the curtain-fire, it can only be dealt with by firing on the enemy batteries themselves: aerial observation is required and also long-range guns."

"The minuteness of the preparation is surely one of the most comforting features of the new war. It is generally known that, in order to make sure that all the enemy works have been properly destroyed, photographs are repeatedly taken by aeroplanes."

"All these photographs are submitted to the divisional staff concerned, but to all the company commanders who are to lead the attack; they are required to state whether they think that the destruction is complete, and, whenever there appears to be a doubtful point, to send out a patrol to confirm by direct inspection of the ground the results shown by the photographer. Then, and not before, the infantry attack is launched. Here begins the second stage."

"Everyone acquainted with trench warfare knows what the root difficulty was up to the present advance. It had been quite rightly assumed that the attacking troops must only advance under a protective curtain of shells. On the other hand, as all the wires are cut as soon as a battle begins, one did not see how to make sure that the moving curtain of shells would precede the attacking infantry without going too fast or—which was a more ominous danger—too slow."

"The difficulty seemed so insuperable that some of the best artillery officers suggested that the only way was to time exactly beforehand the movements of the attacking troops with the lengthening of the range. Any advance under such a system would have had to proceed according to a sort of railway time-table."

"Fortunately, another solution was found, since the allies have achieved the mastery of the air. The connection between the advancing infantry and the artillery is now ensured by the so-called infantry aeroplanes."

"Each French division is provided with a number of these. Their task is to follow closely the advancing line, not in order to fire on the enemy, but simply to report to the gunners and let them know exactly what is going on."

"As soon as the infantry has reached a given point, the 75's are informed that they must lengthen their range beyond it so as not to hit our own men. Information is similarly given if the infantry happens to be held up by an unexpected obstacle, or if a German counter-attack is seen coming up from the rear."

"The way in which this new device has worked on the Somme is simply marvelous. It is mainly to this scientific system that the troops owe the fact that they have been able to advance under a curtain of shells which moved continuously ahead of them at a distance of 200 or 300 yards."

"The main handicap the French are still contending with arises from the fact that they have not a sufficient supply of long-range guns to completely smash the most deadly German gun, the long range 210."

SECOND MORTGAGES TO HAVE CHANCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The long standing prejudices against second mortgages on farm lands, notorious as risky investments, will be a thing of the past when the federal farm loan act is in full operation, the farm loan board announced today. A careful study of the testimony taken during the board's recent western tour has convinced the members that the farm loan will make second mortgages as popular investments as first mortgages. Under the act the government can make loans of only 50 per cent of the value of the land, taking first mortgages. The second mortgage, therefore, will be secured by as much value as the first, providing there is no depreciation in value. The second mortgage, therefore, will be secured by as much value as the first, providing there is no depreciation in value. The second mortgage, therefore, will be secured by as much value as the first, providing there is no depreciation in value.

MUSICAL SATIRE IS HEADLINER AT THE ORPHEUM THEATRE

"At The Club", a musical satire, is billed as the headliner at the Orpheum the first half of the week. The chorus of five men are a harmonious crowd and do some excellent singing. They have a varied repertoire of classical, popular and college glee songs that pleased everybody. "It's Always Fair Weather When Good Fellows Get Together" was especially good.

The five juggling Normans do some very clever work and are the best jugglers that have appeared in Lima for a long time. They handle the clubs with skill and ability and do some seemingly impossible passes that far remove them from the ordinary run of tricksters.

Jack and Jill in a burlesque on the movies give a very good imitation of the hero-rescue-maiden-from-cruel-villain movie and have a clean comedy that every one enjoys. They do some clever dancing and their songs are good.

The Grace-Ayer Duo in a roller skating comedy and the two Mackas in a whirlwind singing and dancing act are other comedy features. A Charlie Chaplin movie concludes an unusually good bill.

DR. HUNT FORMALLY COMMITTED TO THE HOSPITAL FOR INSANE

Dr. F. M. Hunt of Piqua, defeated democratic candidate for nomination as congressman, was formally committed to the Dayton state hospital for insane yesterday by Probate Judge L. E. St. John, of Miami county. Dr. C. E. Hetherington, of Piqua, was the medical examiner.

It is belief of members of the Hunt family that the worry prior to the announcement of the results of the campaign caused Dr. Hunt to become mentally unbalanced. It is alleged that since then he has threatened homicide and also threatened members of the family.

FARMERS BORROW FROM UNCLE SAM

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Write today for an official copy of the Farm Loan Act, with special bulletins giving full information and instruction about the government. Give your address plainly, enclose a two-cent stamp for return postage, and write to Frederic J. Haskin, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—One of the busiest places in the United States is the headquarters of the new Federal Farm Loan Board. As soon as the work of organization can be completed the provisions of the recently enacted Farm Loan Act will become operative, and millions of dollars will be distributed by the government. There is naturally great interest in such an important matter as securing long time loans at a cheaper rate than that which has prevailed heretofore.

Over a hundred thousand inquiries have already been received asking for full information and instructions about securing these loans. While the money will be loaned on land, there are almost as many inquiries from city people as from farmers. This is explained by the fact that many people who live in the city want to get back to the soil, and all who now own farm mortgages want to see how the new law will affect their interests.

The members of the board have just returned from a five-weeks' tour of the country. Twenty-nine hearings were made in 26 states to ascertain where the 12 Federal Land Banks may be most advantageously located. The members of the board heard the opinions of thousands of farmers, bankers and other business men. In this way they gathered data which could not have been otherwise obtained, concerning the condition of rural credit in the United States, and brought away the conviction that the Farm Loan Act is to have a great and permanent place in the agricultural and financial life of the country.

Mr. Herbert Quick, the well-known author and student of agricultural problems, who is a member of the Farm Loan Board, summarizes the purpose and prospects of the new rural credit measure as follows:

"The Federal Farm Loan Act is going to work, and work on a very large scale, because it will enable any farmer, anywhere in the United States at any time to borrow at cost all the money his security will justify. By borrowing at cost, I mean borrowing money which is not loaned for the profit of anyone but the borrower.

"The act means that money can be borrowed on farms on terms fixed by the borrower and for his benefit, instead of at the option and for the profit of the lender," said Mr. Quick. "It is now up to the farmers, and there is evidence that they are not going to neglect their opportunities. In Oklahoma, Texas, and many other states Farm Loan Associations have already been tentatively organized, which will borrow millions of dollars as soon as the act is in operation. I estimate that a thousand National Farm Loan Associations are already formed in this way. Farmers in this country are accustomed to co-operation. Granges, Farmers' Unions, Farm Bureaus and Co-operative Marketing Associations, are all agencies which can be used in forming Farm Loan Associations, and many of them are preparing to do so.

"The attitude of the bankers toward the Farm Loan Act is equally encouraging. Mr. P. W. Goebel, of Kansas City, president of the American Bankers Association, told us at Kansas City that the greatest possible development of this new federal bank will never provide enough of its bonds to meet the demands for them. He said that these bonds will be the first ideal investment the American people have ever possessed—that they will constitute an investment on such a safe basis that the chances for loss will be nil. A Denver banker presented the other side of the case by saying that the demand for money on the part of the farmers will be equal to the greatest possible supply. These statements reflect the consensus of good business opinion everywhere. Thinking business men recognize in this measure a new and safe field for investors, and a great stimulus to agricultural development."

Mr. Quick contrasted the present condition of rural credit in this country with the facilities that will be offered by the new system.

"Suppose that a farmer today wants to borrow as much money on his farm as it will safely secure. He must in most places obtain it either from a local banker, or from some individual who has funds to invest.

In any case the loan will be for a period of from three to five years, rarely ten. The average rate of interest plus commissions paid on farm loans in this country is over 8 per cent. The period of such a loan is not long enough to enable the farmer to carry out an extensive plan of land development, and the interest rate is generally too high to make borrowing really profitable. Furthermore, in many states, farmers are unable to borrow from banks with their land as security. A New Englander told the board that no farmer in his neigh-hood would have the nerve to apply to a bank for a loan on his land.

"The banks are not to be blamed for this state of affairs. It is the duty of a bank to supply the needs of commerce—to keep money in circulation, not to tie it up in long time loans. Lending on land is not the proper function of a bank. In the long time loan on land, the federal bank has an immense field that is practically untouched.

"The farmer having failed to obtain a satisfactory loan from his local banker, has but one other opportunity. He must find some individual who has money to invest. Here the great difficulty is that we have no medium or bringing the farmer and the man with the capital together. The result is that the farmer has a hard time finding capital, and spends much money in commissions to lawyers and brokers. Furthermore, the loan, if he gets it, will in many states probably be on demand. This means continual worry for the farmer, and prevents him planning developments that would require a long time. The result is that most farmers never have the capital which would enable them to get the best out of their land. I haven't got enough capital to farm as good as I know how," was the way one Utah farmer put it.

"Now suppose this same farmer to be seeking capital under the Farm Loan Act. He will have merely to join the nearest National Loan Association, and make application for his loan through its secretary to his Federal Land Bank. His land and its title will be investigated by a committee of the association and also by a federal appraiser. The farmer will be given all the money for which he has security at a low rate of interest for a period of from 5 to 45 years. Indiscriminate borrowing will be held in check by careful study of each individual application, but no farmer possessing adequate security will lack the means to succeed if he has the brains.

"To use money successfully, a man must use brains, and this land bank will put a premium on brains in agriculture. It will encourage the development of land in accordance with careful plans covering a term of years. It will abolish the menace of the farm mortgage at a high rate of interest, payable on demand, which has long been a fiction and in fact, an element of tragedy in American farm life."

JUDGE FLAYS LAW AFTER HEARING ONE MOTHERS SAD STORY

Refuses to Sentence Woman Who Stole to Feed Her Children.

Husband Denied Work Because of Having Dread Tuberculosis.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—It is perhaps unprecedented for a judge to denounce the laws from the bench. Yet this is what Judge Wadhams did here when a mother was brought before him charged with a second offense of stealing to feed her six children.

The judge refused to sentence Mrs. Rebecca Schuur to prison, although she pleaded guilty to burglary and the law clearly called for severe punishment.

Until five years ago the woman's husband supported his family as a worker on children's clothing in one of the great factories of this city. He contracted tuberculosis, the ban of the factory worker, and so was forced by the health laws to give up his position. Since that time Mrs. Schuur has partially earned a living for the family by doing odd jobs.

Judge Wadhams' opinion is little like the usual dry document called by that name. Indignation is written over it. He says:

"The records inform me that this woman was found guilty once before of stealing. She then was let go on a suspended sentence. Because of that fact she ought to be sent to jail. But I understand the conditions.

"Her husband is not permitted by the authorities to work because of his being ill with tuberculosis. It would be a dangerous thing for him to work on children's garments. It might spread the consumption to the innocents. There is a law against that.

"As a result of this law the husband has had no work for four years.

"Nevertheless, he goes on producing children who have very little chance under the conditions to be anything but tubercular, and themselves growing up, to repeat the process with society. There is no law against that.

"But we have not only no birth regulation in such cases, but if information is given with respect to birth regulation, people are brought to the bar of justice for it. There is a law they violate.

"The question is whether we have the most intelligent law on this subject that we might have. These matters are regulated better in some of the old countries, particularly in Holland, than they are in this country.

"I believe we are living in an age of ignorance which at some future time will be looked upon as aghast as we look back on conditions which we now do not permit to exist.

"So that here we have a family increasing in number with a tubercular husband, with a woman with a child at her breast, with other small children at her skirts, and no money.

"There is a report which I have from the Charities society, showing that the defendant, this woman, had to have assistance from time to time to keep them from absolute starvation, and in order to give her family bread she steals. I will not send her to jail, sentenced."

DISPOSITION

THERE was once a man who was called a chronic grouch. And the saddest part about this sad, sad story was that he didn't mind a bit—being called a grouch. Indeed, as time went on, and he grew older, and, contrary to the old adage, less wise, he kept up his pose as the grouch and grump that he was, that he was shunned and heartily disliked by everyone. His life was but one of unhappiness, and he succeeded in a measure of bringing unhappiness into the lives of many others by his nasty disposition.

All this started by his having "apels" of grumpiness, which gradually grew and grew until his whole world was smoke colored.

All this, no doubt, is an extreme example, but it goes to prove (if you know the old man as I do) that there is nothing so to be valued as a nice disposition.

One's disposition depends largely on one's digestion, and in turn one's digestion depends largely on one's disposition. So it's safe to cultivate both.

How many times have you turned, in disgust, from a person who is continually telling you of their aches and pains, and who, in the same breath, criticising some well meant act of some mutual friends? You dislike them, and you invariably turn to one of your friends whom you know will have a smile, a cheery greeting, a word of praise. Then mentally you will compare the faces of these two persons. The grouch will have lines in his face, sullen brows, a tightening about the lips, and altogether a very disagreeable expression. It may be the digestion that has caused this, but a smile on those tight lips, and relaxing of this line would do more for his digestion than the best of medicines. Then the cheery person, the optimist, who is generally fat and healthy, has the face gleaming with good will, sparkling eyes, smiling lips, engaging personality, and an excellent digestion.

To the grouch all persons are doubtful, sarcastic, snobbish, hateful and so on, because he himself is all these and he can't make his friends or shall we say, acquaintances, any other way. He sees the people through his own eyes. So no wonder he is unhappy.

To the optimist, whose glasses are rose tinted, all persons are happy, at least kind, willing to do favors, trustful, democratic—and so is he.

Surely some power has "gle us the gift" to see ourselves reflected in our digestions.

Only Photograph Taken of Sarah Bernhardt As She Stepped from Liner on Arrival Here

MME. SARAH BERNHARDT

Sarah Bernhardt, the great French actress, positively refused to pose for the photographers when she stepped from the liner Espango at the New York pier, Wednesday. She had just gone through the sea off Nantucket believed to be in control of U-77, which had already sunk six steamers. The French liner would have been fair game and the most important the unseaworthy boat had found.

The photographer who got this picture was fortunate. He caught Madame Bernhardt in one of her excited moments trying to answer the welcome of those glad to see her back in the United States.

Daily Fashion Hint

Lovely hats of fabric silks prove especially attractive for afternoon wear if donned in combination with a frock of Georgette crepe and soiree silk, as illustrated here. The hat is developed in broadened silk in a charming shade of blue. The ostrich feather arrangement is particularly attractive and lends just a suggestion of quaintness to the effect.

Favors of Fashion
By CLARICE.

Hand-made worsted trimmings, both for dresses and hats, are among the most popular bits of fancy work for leisure moments. They have the advantage of being small and easily handled, making ideal "pick-up" work for the woman who crochets, knits or embroiders in the sketchy way now fashionable. These old trimmings have the advantage of being economical and practical, for, at the cost of a few cents, they can be made and furnished to one's dress-maker or milliner instead of letting her use expensive pieces from her own stock. Wool flowers, fruits and geometrical designs are quickly embroidered on belts, collar and cuffs, sets, belt and hat ornaments, as the convenience of the worsted give encouraging results even to an amateur.

Worsteds of various qualities and weights come in all the most desirable shades so that an otherwise dark dress may be lightened by the addition of a set of accessories worked in a becoming color. Expensive models, seen in the shops, offer excellent ideas for this sort of work. A favorite embroidered belt, suited to cloth, silk or velvet, has heavy rows of handworked chainstitching at regular intervals the width of the belt. Intersecting these in front, back and on each side, are effectively designed medallions, introducing more brilliant coloring than is shown elsewhere on the belt. The same dress has similar medallions on the corners of cuffs and collars, while the chainstitching is repeated as an edge finish. Simple outline stitch may be used in the same way, and, where extra work is not objected to, three closely set rows of outlining in contrasting colors may be effectively used instead of the single row.

Braiding designs, carried out in heavy worsteds as coarse as sou-tache, are popular for hat ornaments and dress trimmings. The wool is either couched on with silk of the same or a contrasting shade, or it is sewed invisibly to the fabric with thread of the same color. Spiral designs done in the heaviest of worsteds on a foundation of velvet make stunning cauchons for hats, the velvet being of some brilliant color and the spirals of worsted done in the same shade as the hat. Some of these are excellent imitations of a

Dorothy Dix Answers Mother Who Asks How She Can Train Her Daughter to Earn an Independent Living, Should It Ever Become Necessary.

By Dorothy Dix.

FEW DAYS ago I wrote an article for this column urging parents to have their daughters taught some gainful occupation whereby they could earn their own bread and butter if it ever became necessary for them to do so. This has brought forth hundreds of letters from fathers and mothers, who ask:

"What trade or profession would you advise us to have our daughter taught? A boy can study law, medicine, dentistry, etc., but what can a girl do?"

Broadly speaking, a girl can follow almost any career in these days that her brother can. The door of opportunity is pretty widely open to women, and the limit of their achievement is the limit of their ability. There are famous women lawyers and doctors, and there are also lady steamboat captains, lady longshoremen, and at least one feminine steeplejack.

There Are Any Number of Things in Which a Woman Can Win a Good Living.

In the face of what women are doing in Europe at the present moment, where they are raising the crops, making munitions, driving ambulances, doing police duty, running the street railways and motor busses, there don't seem to be many things that a woman can't do if she sets her hand to it and puts her mind on it. Woman's sphere has grown as large as the universe. Personally, however, I believe in the cobble sticking to his last, and I think that women are most useful and that they are likely to achieve their greatest successes when they follow along the lines of what we call woman's work, the things that their foremothers have done for countless generations, and for which they have an inherited natural aptitude.

Let a girl choose any of the occupations that belong to her sex, and do it so well that she raises it to an art or a science, and she is sure of fame and fortune as her reward.

Clothes, food, shelter, nursing—there will never come a time when these four elemental needs of humanity will be adequately supplied. There will always be women and men willing to pay lavishly for beautiful hats and gowns, for superlative cooking, for well kept lodgings and for skillful attendance upon them when they are sick.

Dressmaking, Millinery, Trained Nursing, Cooking—These Are Only a Few Possibilities.

Every dressmaker who has even an artistic sense grows rich. Women struggle with one another to pay $50 for $5 worth of material if it is cunningly put together by a master hand in a hat.

There are a dozen chefs in this city who get ten thousand a year, and any half-way sort of a cook that can make gravy can get from $35 to $40 a month with her board and perquisites. Every well run boarding house where they sweep under the beds and give fairly decent food has a long waiting list. A good trained nurse can make as much as a physician.

These facts being self-evident it follows that no girl can make a mistake who chooses either one of these professions, according to her bent. If she is handy with the needle, send your daughter to one of the various schools of design—to Pratt Institute or to Columbia—and let her learn dress designing or millinery, so that when she starts forth on her career she will be able to turn out creations and get the price of creations, instead of turning out litteral horrors that no one will be willing to pay for at any price.

If your daughter has a taste for cooking, send her to one of the domestic science schools, where she will learn every branch of the art of cookery and housewifery, how to keep a budget, what cuts of meat to buy, how to balance rations, and so on.

Thus she will be equipped to go into a kitchen, to run a boarding house profitably, to take a place in a hotel, or to teach domestic science, and it is said by those in authority at Columbia that there are far more demands for domestic science teachers than there are for ladies to expound the higher culture.

Trained nursing and kindergarten are two more good professions for a girl to study. Furthermore, the girl who takes a thorough course in any of these arts that I have mentioned is preparing herself in the best possible manner for woman's chief career. She will be a more efficient wife and mother for being an expert dressmaker, or milliner, or cook, or nurse, or kindergarten.

If a girl has a mechanical bent and is particularly deft with her fingers, the Manhattan Trade School, or any other such school, will teach her a hundred different ways to make a good living.

If a girl is apt at figures, give her a course in a good business college. There is plenty of room in the business world for expert bookkeepers and cashiers.

Teach Your Daughter to Do One Thing, and to Do That Thing Well.

If a girl has had a good education, and if she knows how to spell, stenography offers an unlimited field for even as the housewife goes about searching for the jewel of a cook who can get up a meal without assistance, so does the business man go about looking for the paragon of a stenographer who can take dictation without making 40 mistakes to the letter. When either treasure is found, her employer stands ready with a fat pay envelope.

If a girl has the commercial instinct—and plenty of girls are born traders—let her go and serve her apprenticeship as a clerk in some business she wants to follow, and then open up her own little shop.

One of the most prosperous suburban stores around New York is kept by two charming ladies of my acquaintance, and I know a young girl now at college, with a passion for old mahogany, who is studying period furniture, and fitting herself to open up an antique shop as soon as she is through school.

Philanthropy, social settlement work, athletics, dancing—there are millions of things a girl can learn to do by which she can earn her own living. It doesn't matter which she chooses. The only thing that matters is how well she learns to do it.

Success in any line simply means turning out an expert job. And failure means turning out a poor job. And this is true for both men and women.

Teach your daughter to do some one thing superlatively well, and you will have given her a dowry that nothing can take from her.

PITTSBURGH—While under arrest on a charge of loitering, thieves entered the hotel room of Max Rosenfeld, a New York salesman, taking jewelry valued at $1,825. The police officers who arrested him had paid.

GIRL MOURNS LOVER AND FATHER WHO WAS HIS MURDERER

CANTON, O., Oct. 17.—Ruth Brittain, 19, was planning today to attend the funeral of her father, William L. Brittain, and of her sweetheart, Victor Roderick, whom Brittain killed here Sunday afternoon before sending a bullet into his own head.

She is loyal to the memory of both.

"Father was always so good to us when he wasn't drinking," she said today, "but Sunday he had been drinking all day and I believe he intended to kill me and mother."

After shooting Roderick when he found him sitting in the parlor of the Brittain home Sunday afternoon, Brittain, former well known base ball player, leveled the revolver at his wife. At that instant a daughter entered the room and screamed. Brittain lowered the gun, walked to a washbasin in the back yard and killed himself.

Brittain had never allowed his daughter to go away from home in the evening. Last Friday evening, last Friday evening she went downtown with her mother, and when they returned home they were locked out. Ruth climbed in the window and unlocked the door for her mother.

Brittain was furiously angry. Members of the family say, and brooded over the daughter's disobedience. No reason other than this has developed for the shooting.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Oct. 17.—Charles Sergeant, night bus boy in a cafeteria here for the last six months—and a very good bus boy at that, today resumed his rightful station in life as Sir Charles Sergeant, British peer, owner of an estate in England, a villa near Naples and a fortune of $3,000,000.

Sir Charles last night broke to his employer the news that one job as a bus boy was vacant. Burke's Peerage tells all about him but it does not tell how, several years ago, he lost father, mother, wife and child in a motor accident in Italy and became a wanderer, nor how he decided to seek forgetfulness in work and took the first thing that offered—a job as a bus boy. The call of England has proved strong, however, and he is returning home soon and, according to his own announcement, not alone. Sir Charles is 46 years old.

BRITAIN SHORT OF RUBBER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Shortage of rubber for war purposes as well as for general use has resulted today in a modification of Great Britain's import restrictions, according to a cablegram from Consul General Skinner at London to the state department. All goods now on the prohibited list may be imported if made wholly or mainly of rubber.

"Ashes of Embers" at the Faurot.

Amusements

THE FAUROT'S PICTURES.

Playing two roles in the same picture is the task faced by Pauline Frederick in her newest Famous Players production, "Ashes of Embers," now on view at the Faurot. This is the sort of work which only the most talented and highly imaginative players can do successfully, since it requires a far greater exercise of the imagination than any other form of action picture the cinema. Without anyone to whom she can actually address herself and without any assistance in the form of a real situation to carry her action through to a climax, the star must rely entirely upon her own genius. Anyone who has stood up and attempted to act before a blank wall will have some idea of the difficulties which Miss Frederick faced in the taking of those scenes in "Ashes of Embers" in which she plays both roles on the screen at the same time. The actress has scored one of the greatest successes of her career in this picture, which has also been highly praised for its excellent cast and beauty of settings and photography.

"Ashes of Embers" is accompanied on the Faurot's program by Burton Holmes' "Bonnie Scotland," a new edition of the Pathe News, and the latest addition to the Faurot's list of special features—a new cartoon novelty, "The Katzenjammer Kids," in which "Hans," "Fritz" and "der Captain" make a whole lot of fun on the screen.

AT THE ROYAL.

"It's a Bluebird!" This simple announcement is enough to guarantee capacity houses for the Royal today and tomorrow, especially so insofar as it features three stars in the one cast—Louise Lovely, Rupert Julian, and Francis Billington. Not alone that, but the two comedy stars, Rube Miller and Dick Turpin appear in the two reel "Vogue comedy scream," "Poultry a la Mode." And here's the Bluebird story: When the rich American women purchased the castles and estates at Longueval the French peasants were terrified in fear that their means of livelihood would be closed. But when Mrs. Scott and her sister Bettina arrived they were so gracious that they won every heart. Titles galore were thrown at Bettina's feet—but "Bettina Loved a Soldier" and under this caption today Bluebird is heralded. The soldier unlike the other suitors considered Bettina's millions a barrier between them, and, to save himself anguish, decided to leave the village and see Bettina no more. But the girl would not have it that way, and it is worth while to see these three stars tell the story in picture drama. The Vogue comedy is a scream from start to finish, so this seven-reel performance is a round of entertainment to be appreciated.

Magnates Should See The Danger Of High Prices

Ebbets Loses Much By Asking High Prices For Tickets to World's Series.

By Frank G. Menka.
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The dear, old public can be pushed so far—but no beyond that mark. It will stand for many things, but there are some stunts attempted by the money-mad baseball magnates that even the long-suffering, patient fans won't countenance.

C. Hercules Ebbets and associates have learned a lesson from the world series. With the sanction of John K. Tener, league president, they sought to shake down the folks in "the city of the unbearably dead" for all they had. The result was not at all what Ebbets expected.

The owner of the Dodgers placed a valuation of $5 on each of the seats in the first eight or nine rows of the lower grandstand and the same price upon the first seven rows in the upper grandstand. The fans at once balked at this bit of "high-handedness." As a result practically every $5 seat in the upper grandstand was empty when the first game was played in Brooklyn, while there were many bare patches in the $5 section in the lower tier.

Sad Blow to Ebbets.

And a sad, sad blow it was to Ebbets. He had figured that the folks would pay any old price asked, but his reasoning was wrong. With more than 7,000,000 inhabitants in the Greater New York district, Ebbets was able to draw only a trifle more than 20,000 persons for his opener, although the seating capacity was something close to 28,000. About $20,000 worth of tickets were unsold. All of which goes to show that it is almost time that the baseball moguls awakened to the fact they are running the risk of assassinating the bird that is laying for them the eggs that can be made into 20 dollar gold pieces.

Series Wasn't Worth Price.

A world series is supposed to be worth the price of admission. But the one they staged this year wasn't. It was poorly played. It lacked much that one expects when champion teams clash. It was dull and colorless in spots. There were flashes of brilliancy here and there—but they were few and far between. Errors were more plentiful than exceptional plays. Only one game of the entire five was a great ball game. The other four were just ordinary.

First Game Figures Surprised.

The low receipts and the low attendance at the first game in Boston bespeaks something strange concerning the handling of tickets. There was a discrepancy somewhere. The crowd at the first struggle seemed almost as large as for the second, yet, officially, it was found to be about 5,000 less. Efforts to run down the alleged irregularity in the sale of tickets has not met with any degree of success. The officials all admit that something seemed wrong, but no one was able to find out definitely what it was.

The bleachers on the day of the first game were almost as crowded as on the second day. Yet the yield from the bleacher seat sales for the opener were said to be far under those for the second; so far under that it looked as if about half the bleacher crowd on the first day got into the grounds without paying at the box office.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 17.—With Percy Houghton back on the coaching job, Crimson foot ballers today began speeding up again. The gridiron wizard has found many faults and has ordered that they be remedied immediately. Harvard supporters now are confident that the power of the Cambridge team will make itself felt again in the foot ball world.

Robinson Gets Big Bonus Check

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Dodgers, today received a $3,000 bonus check from the owners. It was in appreciation for Robinson's trick in giving Brooklyn its first pennant in 16 years.

The 1916 season has been a rather profitable one for "Uncle Robby." In addition to the bonus he got his regular salary, said to be in the neighborhood of $7,500 and also a split of the world series money, making about $15,000 in all.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17.—Johnny Griffiths, of Akron, last night, defeated Bryan Downey, of Columbus, in 12 rounds. Griffiths used his left to advantage and never was in danger.

Fohl Will Leave

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—From Cleveland came the report today that Manager Lee Fohl of the Indians is to be disposed. Just who will succeed him is not known, but it is known Secretary Robert McRoy is on his way here to confer with President Dunn. The latter when asked about the shift, said: "I don't want to discuss it."

Barrett's position is being filled by Shiverick, at quarter, while the veteran Capt. Mueller is holding down the full back job. Mueller's experience on the team is standing him in good stead and Coach Sharpe is expecting much of him this season. The kicking work is being divided between Mueller and Shiverick.

Rivers Matched.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Joe Rivers today was matched to battle Joe Thomas of New Orleans in that city on November 14. It will be 20 rounds to a decision. Joe hopes by beating the southern idol to win a match with Freddie Welsh. Rivers has several matches in sight.

"Bettina Loved Soldier," at Royal EARLY WALK CLUB IS NEW YORK FAIR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A. P. Moore, husband of Lillian Russell; Andrea de Segura, opera singer; Francis X. Bushman, movie star, and other men living in the Majestic hotel, have just formed the Reservoir club. Despite the name, no strong drinks are allowed. The club is a health organization. Its members get up at sunrise and walk all the way around the big reservoir in Central park, opposite the hotel.

Rubber at Once Found Favor.
Rubber was introduced into the United States in 1800, which, by an odd coincidence, was the year of Charles Goodyear's birth. Half a century later a Boston navigator brought from Brazil a number of pairs of boots which had been coated with the coagulated milk of the rubber trees. Their popularity was immediate, on account of their imperviousness to water.

Yale Men Take Rest

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 17.—Following the hard game with Lehigh, Saturday, most of the Yale players rested yesterday, only two of the varsity, Comerford and Gates, the ends, reporting for practice. Van Ostrand, first string quarter back last year ran the varsity in its scrimmage against the scrubs and he did fairly well.

A surprise was spring when "Tad" Jones, the coach sent Rosener in at guard. This player was end on the freshman last year and, while heavy for an end, he is considered rather light for a guard position. He played an aggressive game today however.

The game this week will be played on Friday instead of Saturday, the bowl being used for the pageant celebrating the 200th anniversary of Yale's removal to New Haven.

Big Offer

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Charley White today sent a broadside into the Freddie Welsh camp when the Chicagoan offered to wager the champion any part of $5,000 that he can defeat Welsh if the latter will fight 20 rounds or better minus Billy Roche as referee. White claims he won the Colorado fight and with any other referee would have been given the verdict. He's ready to meet Manager Pollock and sign for another battle.

Ticket Holders Given A Refund

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Nearly $30,000 in cash and checks were returned yesterday by the Brooklyn baseball club to holders of tickets for the third game of the world's series at Ebbets Field, which failed to materialize because the Robins were able to win only a single game from Bill Carrigan's Red Sox.

This is more than half the amount of money that will be refunded and President Ebbets stated yesterday that the club expected to have all the tickets back within a day or two.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Night visitors to the Electrical exposition here are astonished at the new searchlight mounted on the roof of Grand Central Palace, which has a brilliant 22 times greater than the famous light at Sandy Hook.

It is the invention of Elmer A. Sperry, already known for his gyrocompass and airplane stabilizer, and who is a member of the naval consulting board. The rays equal in intensity the sun at 8 o'clock in the morning at this time of the year. The searchlight burns a superheated vapor in the cavity of its positive electrode. Efforts will be made to signal Philadelphia 91 miles away, with its ray.

St. Marys Will Play Lima Boys On Next Sunday

Baggan, Western League Pitcher, Will Do Box Work for Visitors.

St. Marys will be the attraction at Murphy street park next Sunday afternoon. The result of this contest will be watched by fans with much interest as each of the clubs have won a game this season. This game will decide the much-disputed question in regard to the ability of the two clubs.

The St. Marys aggregation showed their mettle in the game they recently played with the Pittsburgh Nationals. At the end of the contest the score stood 3 to 2, the dark day winning the game in the tenth inning.

According to the manager of the St. Marys club the line-up will be intact with the exception of the boxman. Johnny Baggan, who performed in the box for a team in the Western league, will be the twirling for the visitors. As Baggan showed wonderful results in his work in the western circuit this season there is little doubt but that he will give a good account of himself next Sunday.

McClusky, the youngster who gave such a good exhibition in the twirling line last Sunday will be in the box for the Independents. Manager Callahan was so pleased with the showing that he made that he has decided to use him 'he remainder' of the season. There will be no change in the line-up of the locals. It was only after much negotiating that the contest between the two clubs was scheduled. St. Marys is not desirous of playing out-of-town games. This fact caused quite a little discussion between the managers of the two clubs as the Lima team has played all Sunday games on her own diamonds, they were not anxious to change this condition of affairs.

LIMA

Will Be Isolated

IF MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP PROPOSAL IS ADOPTED.

How long would this city be a manufacturing center if there were no long-distance accommodations at the telephone exchange?

What would Lima amount to if there could be no rural or suburban service?

The proposed municipal ownership ordinance provides none, but calls for the operation of the portion of the system "within the corporate limits of the city."

To give you some idea of the volume of long distance conversation in Lima, we cite the report for July, 1916. These are outgoing calls only:

Toledo, 628	Columbus, 285
Dayton, 160	Fort Wayne, 155
Cincinnati, 149	Cleveland, 134
Springfield, 112	Chicago, 63
Detroit, 44	Indianapolis, 34
Pittsburgh, 28	Canton, 16
Akron, 14	Louisville, Ky., 11
St. Louis, 7	Buffalo, 5
New York, 4	Chattanooga, Tenn., 2
London, Ont., 1	St. Thomas, Ont., 1

There were scores of other calls over the long distance wires. As these are only outgoing calls for July, double the number to get the total number of calls in and out of Lima.

As a sample of the business nearer home, 74 calls were sent to Delphos in July, 562 to Waynesfield and 527 to Spencerville.

TURN HAIR DARK
WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It
Darkens So Naturally
Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the musky mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wych's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wych's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustrous and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by saying the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

For Tired Women With Aching Heads

"They help me so much and I find relief as soon as I begin taking your Foley Kidney Pills." Mrs. Frank P. Wood, Morrill, Maine, R. F. D. No. 2. Sometimes it seems as if you can't stand the pain across your back. It is just making your life miserable and robbing you of all energy and strength. When you are constantly tired, head always aching, nerves "on edge," kidney action painful and burning, then is the time to start in at once on Foley Kidney Pills. They strengthen the weak, ailing kidneys, improve their action, enable them to throw off all poisons that cause your trouble. Your nerves grow peaceful, sleep becomes sounder, nervous headaches disappear, and you begin to take your Foley Kidney Pills. Be sure you get the genuine Foley's. For sure you see they are purely medicinal and contain no harmful drugs.

WATER-WITCH IDEA IS CONDEMNED BY YOUR UNCLE SAM

Finding Water in Earth by Divining Rod is Declared Absurd.

Federal Report Gives Black Eye Even to Electric Devices.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 16.—The ancient practice of detecting the presence of water in the earth by means of the divining rod has enjoyed a long career in this country. Uncle Sam has now, however, passed upon this hoary idea. The United States geological survey in Washington constantly receives a large number of inquiries from people all over the country concerning the divining rod. Is the device any good? Does it actually do what the water-witcher says it does? In answer to these questions, Arthur J. Ellis, a geologist of the survey, has now compiled a report, giving the history of the divining rod from the middle ages up to the present day, and exposing all the numerous absurdities in its record. This report is now in the press room of the government printing office and will soon be available for distribution.

Many electrical devices known as divining rods have been invented in recent years with very little success, but the real divining rod, as it has come down to us through the centuries, is a simple forking twig cut from a hazel or peach tree. Why the preference was shown for peach and hazel is not known any more than the origin of the rod itself, but these are the woods that are supposed to produce the best results. Gaoping this forked branch firmly by both prongs, with the main stem pointing ahead and tilting a little upward the water-witcher walks gravely over the country and tells you just which sections contain water and which do not. The theory is that whenever the divining rod passes over a place where there is water it will either point down or begin to twitch violently, of its own accord, impelled by the electric currents which follow underground bodies of water.

As a matter of fact, however, the spots selected by the water-witcher which do happen to contain water are usually those which a keen-eyed layman could readily pick out without the assistance of the hazel tree, and often the water-witcher is wrong. A few years ago, for example, a land company in a New England section had just completed several artesian wells which were to furnish a new community with water. Some of the wells were not successful, having promptly gone dry. The company was criticized for not having called in the services of a certain well-known water-witching expert before starting the work, thereby saving the property owners money. In answer to this criticism the land company asked the water-witcher in question to walk blind-folded over this section of the country, including the wells, and by the use of his divining rod tell which wells contained water and which were dry. The divining rod in this case proved absolutely incorrect, the water-witcher stating that the dry wells contained water and pronouncing the good wells dry.

In spite of countless experiments of this sort in which the results have been anything but favorable to the water-witcher, many people still accept the verdict of the divining rod as final. This is probably because, on the whole, the water-witcher believes in it himself. They are absolutely convinced that the stem of the hazel fork is attracted to the ground by unknown agencies, such as electricity, and that they themselves have nothing whatever to do with its movement. The cases are explained by the geological survey on a scientific basis. The movement of the rod is caused by unconscious muscular action on the part of the water-witcher. He comes to a place where the lay of the land indicates that this thought is registered in his conscious mind, his subconscious mind is manipulating the muscles of his arms and hands, and the divining rod, of course, moves. Of course there is nothing to prevent the water-witcher from consciously manipulating the hazel branch to his own ends.

There is other evidence against this survival of the dark ages. In a series of experiments described by the survey, water-witchers were unable to detect strong water currents in tunnels which afford no surface indications of water, their decisions in certain limestone districts "where water flows in well-defined channels" were no more accurate than those based on mere guess, and in every case where they walked blindfolded their locations were wrong. "In fact," says the survey bulletin, "operators of the divining rod are successful only in regions in which ground water occurs in a definite sheet of porous materials or in more or less clayey deposits, such as pebbly clay or silt. In such regions, few failures can occur, for wells can get water almost anywhere." In view of these facts, the survey strongly advises people not to spend money in hiring professional water-witchers.

Perhaps no other one subject has ever attracted so much heated discussion and careful investigation as the divining rod, without accomplishing any positive results. Attached to the survey's new report is a bibliography of hundreds of books which have been written on the subject in the past two hundred years. Some authors are convinced that the uncanny movements of the rod are due to supernatural causes; others believe that its alleged power is based on scientific principles, and still others, like the survey, believe that it is not the hazel branch at all, but the keen eye and mind of the water-witcher which oftentimes make an accurate guess.

The activities of the divining rod, however, have not been confined to the detection of underground bodies of water. It is as versatile a piece of wood as the wand of a fairy godmother. In the past it has been used to locate hidden treasure, to detect the presence of ore deposits in the earth, and to point out those guilty of witchcraft and other crimes. In the year 1892 a young French peasant suddenly astonished the world by apprehending a notorious criminal through the agency of the divining rod. France was greatly excited. The peasant, whose name was Jacques Aymer, was immediately summoned to Paris, where he was showered with attentions from the court, which desired to recover stolen brooches and letters. In the majority of cases, he was remarkably successful, and the fame of his rod spread all over Europe until the fraud was exposed by a few experiments made by the clever Prince de Conde. Then it appeared that Aymer was simply a very shrewd detective, two or three centuries ahead of his profession, who quietly followed up his clues and then went over the same ground with his divining rod, making people believe that it was the source of his amazing knowledge. Detectives were not appreciated in those days, but witchcraft was. Aymer was an opportunist.

The divining rod was also formerly used to determine the location of ore deposits. Once in a while it would prove correct, but the majority of times the miners dug their trenches without encountering anything but hard labor. An interesting account of this superstition in practice is given in a translation of Georgius Agricola's "De re Metallica" which is quoted in the survey report, made by H. C. Hoover, the American mining engineer who has recently risen to the front in the Belgian relief work. This old work describes the early European miners as "wandering hither and thither at random through mountainous regions" with the divining rods held in front of them, confident that the moment they placed their feet on a vein of ore the forked branch would begin to turn and twist.

There was supposed to be a scientific reason for the use of the rod in discovering ore deposits, just as there is a scientific reason given today for its use in detecting the presence of water. It was the belief of the educated men of the day that metallic ores attracted certain trees, causing them to droop over places containing such ores. Thus a branch of the tree was supposed to answer the same purpose. Sometimes it was necessary to utter a number of weird incantations and invoke the aid of Providence and the devil, but this was usually a matter of personal taste and did not seem to affect the results one way or the other.

This versatile scientific record and its otherwise peculiar history has not prevented the superstition from gaining a hold in this country. There is now hardly a county in the United States which has not a well-known water-witcher who claims to be able to locate water with his hazel fork. Chevy Chase, Maryland, for example, has recently been a center of such activities, but as yet no valuable decisions have been rendered. For some reason the land in this locality will not readily produce water. Both state and government geologic experts have investigated the matter and found that the rock in this section is a hard and close-grained kind through which the water cannot penetrate. These scientists are still trying to work out a means by which the water may be brought to the surface. In the meantime, however, the water-witchers are taking daily hikes over the country armed with hazel branches.

The divining rod is likely to die hard, but the publication of the survey's report will undoubtedly mean the end of a good many professional water-witchers in this country. According to the government scientists, nothing has ever been invented to detect the presence of water in the earth but common sense, the possession of which does not depend upon the divining rod.
